

The following are members of the President's Board of Consultants on the foreign intelligence activities of the Government:

1. Dr. James R. Killian, Jr., Chairman
51 years of age; President, Massachusetts Institute of Technology since 1948; Chairman of a recent panel of scientists who studied methods of mobilizing more effectively the scientific resources of the U. S. in the event of a national emergency.
2. Admiral Richard L. Conolly
63 years of age; President, Long Island University; Commander of Naval Task Force which took Guam back from the Japanese in 1944; Commander-in-Chief of the U. S. Naval Forces in the Eastern Atlantic and Mediterranean until November 1950; President of the Naval War College from 1950 - 1953; Staff Commander-in-Chief of U. S. Fleet prior to retirement; Member of the Mark Clark task force of the Hoover Commission, which conducted a recent study on the intelligence activities of the Government.
3. Lieutenant General James H. Doolittle
59 years of age; Vice-President and Director of the Shell Oil Company; Commander of the Eighth Air Force prior to retirement in 1946; awarded Congressional Medal of Honor, Distinguished Service Medal with Oak Leaf clusters and other decorations during the war; Chairman of a recent study group which surveyed aspects of the intelligence activities of the Government.
4. Mr. Benjamin F. Fairless
65 years of age; Director and member of the Finance Committee of the U. S. Steel Corporation; former President and Chairman of the Board of the U. S. Steel Corporation; former member of the Iron and Steel Industry of the Advisory Committee of the War Production Board.
5. General John E. Hull
60 years of age; President of the Manufacturing Chemists' Association, Inc.; Commander General of the Far East Command prior to retirement; former director of the Weapons System Evaluation Group in the Office of the

6. The Honorable Joseph P. Kennedy
67 years of age; retired business man; former
Ambassador of the United States to the United Kingdom
(1937 - 41).
7. The Honorable Robert A. Lovett
60 years of age; partner in Brown Bros., Harriman &
Company; U. S. Secretary of Defense (1951 - 53).
8. Mr. Edward L. Ryerson
69 years of age; Chairman, Executive Committee of the Inland Steel Corporation.

STAT

~~SECRET~~

Norman S. Paul
Legislative Counsel

IG:NSP:fm